WOULD IMPRISON SUGAR PROFITEERS

Congressman Howard Introduces Drastic Measure in Effort to Cut Prices.

A bill designed to eliminate speculation and curb profiteering in sugar was introduced in the House yesterday by Congressman Howard, Democrat of Oklahoma. The bill provides:

"Section 1. That it is hereby made unlawful for any person handling, dealing in, distributing, importing or manufacturing sugar, witfully to resell sugar to persons of the same trade without reasonable justification. The Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe what shall constitute reasonable justification for such resales.

"Section 2. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act and the regulations made thereunder upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding $10,000 or be imprisoned for not more than two years or both."

In a statement accompanying his bill, Mr. Howard said: "There is no doubt but that the element of speculation which has entered into the dealing in and the distribution of this commodity has had a very material effect in raising the price of it to the consumer. Speculation has very materially increased as the result of re-sales within the trade. The Department of Justice has been unable to meet this situation because of inadequate legislation, the only means now provided being the licensing system. With the declaration of peace or the repeal of war measures, the licensing system will automatically become obsolete and of no value. This would leave the people of the country entirely at the mercy of the sugar speculators."

AGED PRIEST IS UNHURT IN WILD RIDE ON ENGINE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—Hurled to the pilot of the engine when his automobile was splintered by a fast freight train near Louisville late yesterday, Rev. Father W. J. Howlett, seventy-four years old, was carried four miles before his presence was discovered by the engineer.

"I didn't think you were ever going to stop," the priest calmly remarked to the engineer as the train was brought to a halt. "I didn't care much. It was a novel ride." The priest, who is chaplain at Loretto Academy, didn't have a scratch. His machine was cut in half and reduced to kindling.

Kindly Burglar Robs Druggist; Then Tells Him to Go In For Theft

NEW YORK, May 2.—A kindly disposed burglar gave Joseph Schwartz, a druggist, some advice as he backed Schwartz into a rear room at the point of a gun and went through his pockets for $200.

"Do you make much money?" he asked the druggist affably as he took his scarpin.

"No, very little," was the reply. "Then why don't you get in this business? It's easy work, and very profitable."

"BARREL" SLAYER IS GIVEN 20 YEARS

Christopher Mammano Killed Cousin in Order to Cancel Mortgage He Held.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 2.—Christopher Mammano was convicted in supreme court here today of murder in the second degree for the killing of his cousin, Filippo Ferrara. He was sentenced to not less than twenty years in Auburn prison.

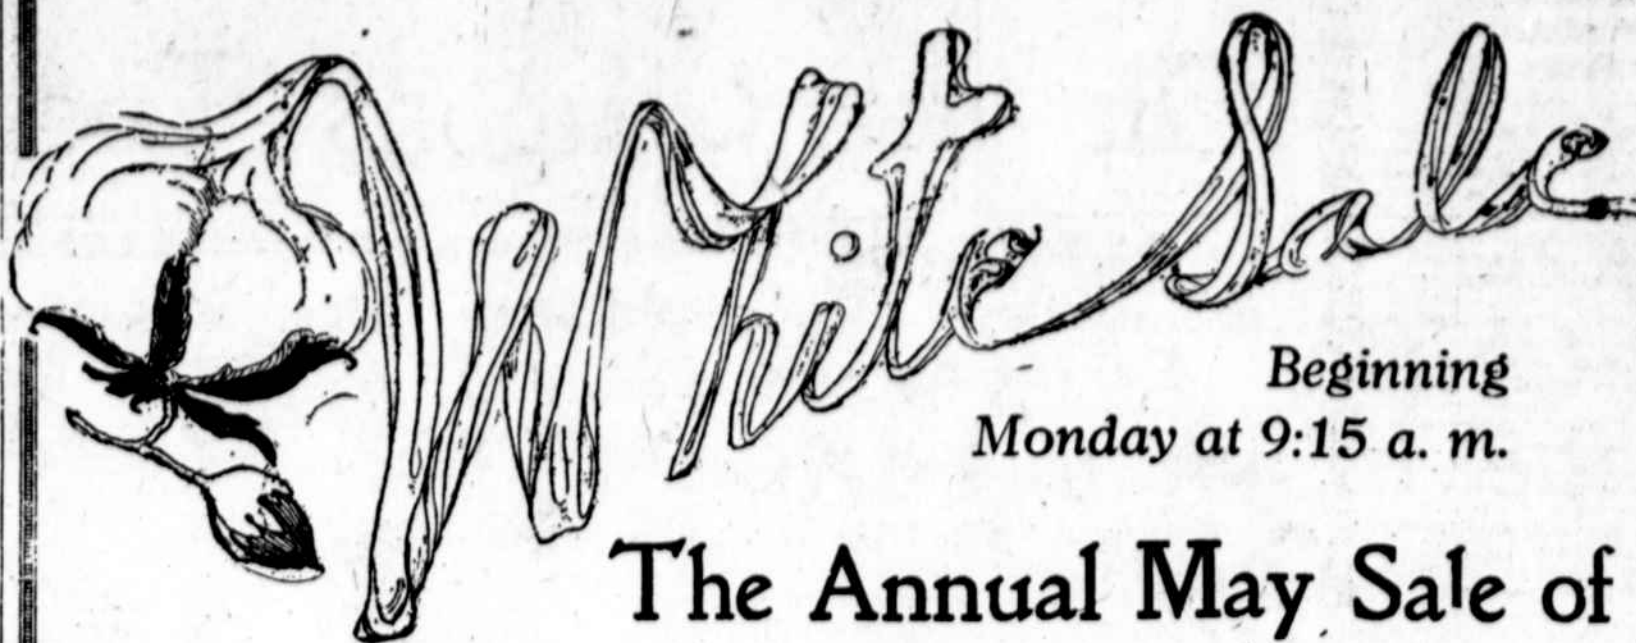

The crime for which Mammano must pay the penalty is locally described as the "barrel murder." It was committed February 17 at the home of Mammano, where a celebration was under way. Mammano and an alleged accomplice, who will be tried later, got Ferrara drunk and afterward stabbed and beat him to death.

Then in an effort to conceal the crime the body was stuffed in a barrel used for ashes and taken to a shed a short distance away. Oil was poured over the barrel and body and a match applied. The smoke attracted attention of passersby before the body was incinerated, however, and the tracks led the police to the scene of the crime, where they found Mrs. Mammano endeavoring to obliterate bloodstains from the floor.

Under police grilling Mammano confessed. His cousin held a mortgage on the Mammano home and the police have contended that Mammano had an idea he could conceal the mortgage by killing his cousin.
